

Who We Are

The Oregon Intergroup of Overeaters Anonymous respects your privacy and takes protecting it seriously. This Privacy Policy covers our collection, use, and disclosure of information we collect through our website <https://oregon-ooa.org/> It also describes the choices available to you regarding our use of your personal information and how you can access and update this information.

What Personal Data We Collect and Why We Collect It

Log Data

When you visit our website, our servers may automatically log the standard data provided by your web browser. This data is considered “non-identifying information,” as it does not personally identify you on its own. It may include your computer’s Internet Protocol (IP) address, your browser type and version, the pages you visit, the time and date of your visit, the time spent on each page, and other details.

The IP address of visitors, user ID of logged-in users, and username of login attempts are conditionally logged to check for malicious activity and protect the site from specific kinds of attacks. Examples of conditions when logging occurs include login attempts, log-out requests, requests for suspicious URLs, changes to site content, and password updates.

We may also collect data about the device you are using to access our website. This data may include the device type, operating system, unique device identifiers, device settings, and geo-location data. What we collect can depend on the individual settings of your device and software. We recommend checking the policies of your device manufacturer or software provider to learn what information they make available to us.

Contact Forms

We may ask for personal information, such as your:

- Name
- Email
- Phone number

- Mailing address if you are purchasing OA approved literature

This data is considered “identifying information,” as it can personally identify you. We only request personal information relevant to providing you with a service and only use it to help provide or improve this service. We do not use this information for marketing purposes.

Cookies

We use “cookies” to collect information about you and your activity across our site. A cookie is a small piece of data that our website stores on your computer and accesses each time you visit, so we can understand how you use our site. This helps us serve you content based on the preferences you have specified.

Embedded Content from Other Websites

Articles on this site may include embedded content (e.g., videos, images, articles, etc.). Embedded content from other websites behaves in the exact same way as if the visitor has visited the other website.

These websites may collect data about you, use cookies, embed additional third-party tracking, and monitor your interaction with that embedded content, including tracing your interaction with the embedded content if you have an account and are logged in to that website.

Who We Share Your Data With

We may use third-party services for:

- Analytics tracking
- User authentication

These services may access our data solely to perform specific tasks on our behalf. We do not share any personally identifying information with them without your explicit consent. We do not give them permission to disclose or use any of our data for any other purpose.

From time to time, we may allow limited access to our data by external consultants and agencies for analysis and service improvement. This access is only permitted for as long as necessary to perform a specific function. We only work with external agencies whose privacy policies align with ours.

We will refuse government and law enforcement requests for data if we believe a request is too broad or unrelated to its stated purpose. However, we may cooperate if we believe the requested information is necessary and appropriate to comply with legal process, to protect our own rights and property, to protect the safety of the public and any person, to prevent a crime, or to prevent what we reasonably believe to be illegal, legally actionable, or unethical activity.

We do not otherwise share or supply personal information to third parties. We do not sell or rent your personal information to marketers or third parties.

This WordPress site is scanned for potential malware and vulnerabilities by Defender. We do not send personal information to Defender; however, Defender could find personal information posted publicly (such as in comments) during their scan.

Where We Send Your Data

The personal information we collect is stored and processed in the United States, or where we or our partners, affiliates, and third-party providers maintain facilities. We only transfer data within jurisdictions subject to data protection laws that reflect our commitment to protecting the privacy of our users.

We only retain personal information for as long as necessary to provide a service or to improve our services in the future. While we retain this data, we will protect it within commercially acceptable means to prevent loss and theft and unauthorized access, disclosure, copying, use, or modification. That said, we advise that no electronic transmission or storage method is 100% secure and cannot guarantee absolute data security.

If you request your personal information be deleted or where your personal information becomes no longer relevant to our operations, we will erase it from our system within a reasonable timeframe.

Visitor comments may be checked through an automated spam detection service.

What Rights You Have Over Your Data

If you have submitted a form on this site, you can request to receive an exported file of the personal data we hold about you, including any data you have provided to us. You can also request that we erase any personal data we hold about you. This does not include any data we are obliged to keep for administrative, legal, or security purposes.

Please write or email us to request information we hold about you.
